Veteran, Disabled In Battle, Carries On Fight at Post As Receiving Clerk

BY PFC. AL SMITH

The war ended steeply for Staff Sergeant Charles E. Whitmer one December day in WWII, when he was thrown from his jeep on a road five miles north of Novigrad, Yugoslavia. He was struck by a tank's cannon fire.

Sgt. Whitmer lost both legs, but he continued to serve in the Army for several years. He is now working as a receiving clerk at the post.

Civilians Hired To Relieve GI's

Nearly 600 soldiers have been released for combat duties through the post's civilian personnel department. The civilian workers are being trained to perform the same jobs as the soldiers.

Emancipation of Japanese Womanhood Is 1st Step in Nip Reformation

MAJ. CORV. ROBERT G. GREENE, M. C.

The emancipation of the Japanese woman is the first step in the modernization of the world's oldest civilization. Women's rights are not a luxury of Western civilization; they are basic to the health and welfare of any nation. To provide a country with a healthful and happy people, it is first necessary to uplift and educate the womanhood of a race. The integration of the sexes is one of the greatest educational achievements of history — and the emancipation of the woman is the first step towards this goal.

JAPANESE WOMEN ARE BEGINNING TO THINK!

In Japan, women are thinking. They are thinking first of the problems of their domestic life. While they still are submissive to their husbands, they are beginning to demand the rights of citizenship. They are thinking, too, of the political and economic problems of the nation. The Japanese government is taking steps to educate the womanhood of Japan, and the women of Japan are taking steps to educate themselves.

A WOMAN'S EDUCATION IS THE KEY TO HER HUSBAND'S HAPPINESS.

A woman's education is the key to her husband's happiness. When a woman is educated, she is able to understand her husband, and he is able to understand her. When a woman is educated, she is able to serve her husband, and he is able to serve her. When a woman is educated, she is able to love her husband, and he is able to love her. When a woman is educated, she is able to make her husband happy, and he is able to make her happy.

Excerpts from a letter written by a Japanese woman to her husband:

"I have written to you about the importance of education. I believe that education is the key to a happy marriage. I have said before that I want to learn to read and write. I want to learn to read and write so that I can understand you better. I want to learn to read and write so that you can understand me better. I want to learn to read and write so that we can love each other more. I want to learn to read and write so that we can live happily together."
MRS. BEATRICE CURL—spoke on the Mother's Day IPS BoatRide. Widely Enjoyed. As a day of activities in celebration of the formal activation of the Parachute School, the boatride on the Chattahoochee River was a success and was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended.

During the planned program, one of the highlights was the jitterbug contest which was won by Private Mary E. Dormath and Technical Sergeant Thomas S. A. Mango who exhibited quite a proficient style of the art.

Private Mary Dormath is the daughter of Mrs. R. H. Andersow who resides at 1q3-14th street, Columbus. She is at the present time attending Negro School which is a specialized training at the Parachute School. After a total of eight weeks as a member of the WAC, Private Dormath states that she has had interesting experiences and thinks the organization as the finest in the world.

Technician Fourth Grade Thomas S. A. Mango, the other Selectee, is from a returnee who has been stationed in Newfoundland.

"The best way to save time is to put white sauce in your refrigerator. Make up a quantity of white sauce and have it all ready for use when you need it," said Private Dormath on November 8th and got her Soldier's Medal in the French Army. In December he was wounded and has four battle stars. Part of an Allied force that marked the end of the war, Private Dormath was probably one of the cathedral-dwelling men in Fort Benning's history.

"Give me two more and we'll win." That's what rocky Billy Kennedy said when he first drove in a Parachute School run last Wednesday, and was asked if it was the turning point against Ewell Blackwell and the league-leading Third Student Infantry Regiment Ripper Rifles.

The big southpaw called the turn, but his mates, 'shackled to a ball, they couldn't do anything, either, as the former Washington School's pest outfield was charged with a 4-game average of 2.43 per game.

Elmer Neibler Tops TIS League Hitters

Academic Prof Outfielder Hitting Ball at .425 Clip As Averages Are Released

No less than 31 hitters are slugging the ball at a clip of .300 or better in the Infantry School Baseball League, according to official figures released today. These figures include players who have appeared in five games or more and also during playoff games last week.

Many of the hitters were successful with the bat in games played this past week. Outstanding players on the day included Elmer Neibler, a history professor, who led all batters in the Infantry School with a .425 clip. Others who did well with the bat included R. D. Barr, a sergeant; J. B. Jones, a private; and T. H. Smith, a corporal.

EDWARD T. TANNER, M.A., head baseball coach of the Infantry School, today announced that Neibler had been selected as the TIS League's player of the week. Neibler, who has been a member of the Infantry School faculty for 15 years, is known for his sound hitting. In addition to his work as a baseball coach, Neibler is also a well respected member of the Infantry School faculty.

Officer Scores 18 Bulls With 18 Sustained Shots

Having 18 bull's eyes with 18 shots in a row may be a record. James D. McCall, TIS Script Writer, was only the second officer to score 18 bull's eyes in a row with the 3rd STR Rifles yesterday afternoon. Capt. Robert V. Finch, who discarded the gun, was the first one to score 18. The officers scored on the TIS Special Match, sponsored by Maj. Gen. George T. Foster, Chief of Staff of the TIS. The officers scored 18 bull's eyes, with the exception of one shot which was a 9. The officers' match was followed by the 3rd STR Rifles match, in which the team scored 18 bull's eyes with 18 shots.

79-Year-Old Railroader Is Dean of Post's Civilians

By ERIC AL ETTER

The baseball player who is the oldest member of Post 318, American Legion, is 79-year-old Michael Tansey. He has been working on the railroad for 59 years, and he still loves it. He is a retired conductor.

Tansey started working for the railroad in 1926, when he was 18 years old. He was a messenger boy, and he quickly worked his way up to a conductor. He has been married for 56 years, and he has two children and five grandchildren.

Tansey says that he loves the feel of the train under his feet and the sound of the wheels on the tracks. He enjoys the challenge of working with the large engines, and he says that the job has never been boring to him.

Tansey has been a member of Post 318 for 25 years, and he says that he enjoys being involved with the veterans. He is active in the American Legion and participates in many of their activities.

Tansey is a proud American, and he says that he is grateful for the opportunity to work on the railroad. He says that he has learned a lot from his years on the job, and he is proud of the work that he has done.

Tansey is the proud father of two children, and he says that his family is his biggest source of pride. He has four grandchildren, and he says that he enjoys spending time with them.

Tansey is a dedicated family man, and he says that he is grateful for the support of his family. He says that they have been his greatest source of strength and encouragement.

OC Helped 'Map' Out D Day Invasion Plans

With the opening of the Allied-occupied country, the job of preparing for the invasion of France was a major project. The invasion, now estimated at 1,000,000 men, was a joint effort of the United States and Britain, with the United States providing the majority of the troops. The invasion was expected to take place in May, with the first landings expected on May 4th.

Officer winter blouse changed

During his service with the United States Army on active duty, Officer Winter was noted for his winter blouse, which was changed to a more comfortable material. The new blouse was made of a heavy wool blend, and was designed to keep the wearer warm in cold weather. The blouse was also easier to move in, as it was less bulky than the old model.
